WORKSHOP-INSTITUTE INFORMATION

REGISTRATIONS FOR WORKSHOPS AND INSTITUTES

Registrations for workshops will be accepted beginning April 17, 1990. Registrations are accepted on a first come, first served basis. Each workshop has a registration deadline. Openings in workshops are most likely to be available to persons registering prior to the deadline date. Registrations after the deadline date will be processed only if space is available. Full tuition and fees must accompany the reservation form. Registrations may be done by mail (see registration material request forms on inside back page) or in person. Students new to Xavier must complete the proper application form and be accepted prior to registration.

GRADING POLICY

All workshops for two credit hours or less are graded on a PASS/FAIL basis unless otherwise indicated. Letter grades may be available by special arrangement with the instructor.

WORKSHOP LIMITS

Only two semester hours maximum of graduate credit or undergraduate credit may be obtained in a one-week workshop unless the workshop is listed as three credit hours in the bulletin. Credit hours for any workshop may not be increased by doing additional work. No more than six semester hours of workshop and/or institutes may be applied toward a graduate degree program. All workshop/institutes listed in this brochure may be taken for graduate credit.

TAFT SEMINAR FOR TEACHERS

June 18 to June 29
 HS/PO 741-WS Three Graduate Credits CBA 15
 ED773-WS 9:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Total cost for three credits, luncheons, books and materials, will be approximately $100.00. Room and meal subsidy provided for noncommuting students.

Limited enrollment, early application required.

Elementary and Secondary Teachers, Librarians and Administrators with responsibility for social studies are eligible. The goal of the seminar is to introduce educators to the world of practical politics and government in an academic environment so that they in turn will be better prepared to teach about the American political process. Taft Seminars offer an exciting opportunity to explore American politics and the two party system with practicing politicians and government leaders. Over half of the presentations will be made by practitioners, the remainder by University faculty.

 CJ 686-WS 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. (M,T,W,Th)
 8:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. (F)
 Director: Dr. Daniel W. Geeding

This course is designed to integrate the philosophy, theories, and techniques of three powerful Humanistic Systems - Transactional Analysis, Gestalt Therapy, and Neurolinguistic Programming with the process of leadership. Leadership is one of the important functions of management, administration, education, and other areas involved in human resource development.

This integration is achieved through a balanced, didactic-experiential approach, with the focus on attaining behavioral as well as intellectual competencies. The behavioral competencies are identified for T.A., Gestalt, and N.L.P. R and participants will be evaluated on their ability to demonstrate attainment of those goals.

After short theory - demonstration segments, participants will practice utilizing each component. The basic components will be combined into higher level systems that will become part of each participant's behavioral repertoire.

Additional outside reading and written assignments are required.

9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. (Sat.)

Director: Dr. Trudelle Thomas

"You must give birth to your images. They are the future waiting to be born."

-- R. M. Rilke

This new workshop will explore the artist's quest for creative inspiration, identity, and recognition. While we will focus on literary artists, the workshop will also include presentations of local artists working in the visual and musical arts, including a guest appearance by MUSE, Cincinnati's Women's Choir.

Some of the questions we will explore are these: What are the sources of inspiration for the creative artist? How can the ordinary person free the artist within? Do men and women experience their creative powers differently? Why have male artists been so much more widely celebrated than female artists? How do various creative artists portray their "muse" or other sources of inspiration? What is the relationship between art and social change? Between the individual artist and our cultural tradition?

We will explore the works of T. S. Eliot, Alice Walker, Walt Whitman, Adrienne Rich, Virginia Woolf, Georgia O'Keeffe, Matthew Fox and others. (A packet of reading materials will be made available two weeks before the class begins.) We will explore other art forms through slides, films, guest speakers, and a special appearance of MUSE.

This promises to be an enriching interdisciplinary workshop!

INSTITUTE: INTENSIVE PHONICS

ED 390-WS

June 11 to 16
Two Credit Hours
9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. (MTWThF)
9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. (S)
Director: Sr. Monica Foltzer, O.S.U.

Alter 207

This institute offers teachers, principals, counselors, and speech therapists a course in the structure of language. It deals with all of the main sound-symbol relationships, both vowel and consonant. This intensive teaching of a simple and well-organized method of independent word analysis is of singular importance at the K-3 level and in remedial work.

Sister Monica uses her books for the institute. In "Professor Phonics Gives Sound Advice", the student learns on the very first page three consonants and the short sound of a, how to slide these together into words, and to string the words into sentences. The child is reading from the word GO! The 42 sounds of English language are taught in a step-by-step logical procedure.

In "A Sound Track To Reading," the author's second book, the 42 basic sounds are further streamlined. This advanced intensive phonics book is designed for remedial reading in the intermediate, junior and senior high schools. Techniques helpful with both books will be provided. Practical demonstrations with children are part of the institute.

THE MENTAL EDGE FOR ATHLETES

ED 599-WS

ED 299-WS

June 11 to June 15
Two Credit Hours
8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. (MTThF)
8:30 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. (W)
Director: Dr. William Daily

Alter 222

The mental preparation of athletes and athletic teams is as important, sometimes more important, than the physical preparation for competition. The integration of these two types of preparation is essential for achieving one's maximum potential. Self image can limit and/or enhance performance. The concept of positive mental attitude will be presented, discussed and examined in depth. In addition, the role of music, self hypnosis, visualization, relaxation, self talk, intensity, motivation, modeling, self fulfilling prophesy, behavior modification, individual and team morale, appropriate peaking, believing in self, peer support, and pre-event planning will be discussed.

Communication as it applies especially to the teaching of skills, giving direction, correcting and reinforcing performance will be investigated. Increasing one's comfort zone by using a goal setting process will be encouraged to develop mental action plans for self, athletes, and teams. The role of athletics and one's philosophy of coaching will be addressed along with the role of ethics in coaching adolescents. Emphasis will be placed on applying theory to real life situations.

Guest speakers will present how they have mentally prepared athletes and athletic teams for competition. Participants are encouraged to bring audio and video tapes, articles, poems, signs, slogans, and other motivational material to share with the class.

This experience is intended for elementary and high school coaches as well as those adults who coach young athletes in individual and team sports. Attendance is required at all sessions.

June 11 to 15

Two Credit Hours

9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Director: Dr. Patricia Cramer

Alter 217

An unprecedented diversity of writings by women has been published within the past two decades. One of the most challenging and exciting results of this phenomenon has been the dialogue developing among women seeking commonalities across differences of race, ethnicity, looks, age, life style, and religion. Class focus will be on writings by women from diverse backgrounds. This course should be particularly useful for teachers and others interested in developing their familiarity with non-canonical literatures and media aides.

Video images - film and television - have become the primary texts informing us about the lives of those marginalized by the American Experience. Young men and women, particularly, are more frequently exposed to video images than any other text about themselves and the world in which they live.

This workshop will examine the image of women and blacks in popular film to determine what these movies say about us and imply about our attitudes.

Films will be discussed as modern literary texts which we can use to help us become more aware of and sensitive to our assumptions about women and blacks in American Society.

Students will see 8 films from the 70's and 80's and discuss the treatment of women and blacks. Guest speakers - professionally involved in the film industry - will discuss the opportunities in the industry to project positive rather than negative, trite, or stereotypical images.

Director: Dr. Trudelle Thomas

Alter 110

EN 405-WS

ED 469-WS

If you want to write more clearly and powerfully, and to enjoy writing more, this workshop will help you. Specifically, you will learn:

- How to overcome writer's block
- Strategies for finding ideas to write about
- Skills for giving and seeking constructive criticism
- Guidelines for revising and editing your own work
- Principles of clear, effective writing
- Tips on time management for writers
- Suggestions for building a self-study library
- How to get your work into print

This workshop will feature prominent local writers as guest speakers, and will also include films, response groups, and individualized guidance from the director.

Past participants include business people, teachers, closet novelists, students, thesis-writers, and homemakers. Because we will use the innovative techniques endorsed by the National Writing Project, this course will be especially useful to teachers of Language Arts and English at all levels. The workshop is geared to the mature student, and we assume participants have mastered basic grammar and sentence structure.

Many advances have occurred within the area of child and adolescent psychopathology in the past few years. This workshop is designed for professionals and graduate students in psychiatry, psychology, counseling, education, social work, corrections, and other related fields who work with children and adolescents in a therapeutic capacity. While this workshop is developed to present the theoretical basis and recent research in the area of child and adolescent psychopathology, the primary focus will be on developing the practical clinical skills of the participants in working with various behavioral and emotional disorders. Cognitive-behavioral conceptualization of psychological disorders, assessment techniques, and treatment procedures will be explored in depth.

Video tapes of therapy sessions, role playing, films, small group discussions, and lectures will be utilized to develop the understanding and clinical expertise of the participants. A variety of clinical procedures (self-instructional techniques, stress-inoculation, and pain control strategies) will be presented as methods in dealing with many of the psychological disorders (anger, depression, delinquency, phobias, hyperactivity, learning disabilities, etc.) experienced by children and adolescents.

Director: Gary G. Gaffney

ED 453-W

Alter 319

This course takes nature as a primary resource to investigate connections between art and science/mathematics. Emphasis is placed largely on Greek, Renaissance and contemporary Western cultures.

* Interrelationships are examined in the areas of geometry; structure, order and beauty in nature; the creative process and problem-solving.

* An historical and cultural viewpoint is provided, focusing on the work of particular artists and scientists in the context of a general overview.

Course demonstrations and exercises, including drawing, will help generate activities for classroom use.

Course content will be accessible to teachers in both art and science/mathematics with the hope that there will be an exchange of ideas across disciplines.

The course consists of lectures, slides, classroom activities, field trips and discussions. Daily assignments will complement classroom work. Though the course is geared primarily toward educators, non-educators with an interest in this area will also find the course stimulating and informative.

ED 610-WS

9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. (W,Th)

9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. (F)

Directors: Dr. W. Michael Nelson, III, & Dr. William Groman

While Gestalt therapy is over three decades old, there was a sharp increase in interest and use of Gestalt methods in psychotherapy in the 1970s until it is now well established both as a major affiliation of psychotherapists and as a style of personal growth. This introductory workshop is designed for professionals and graduate students in psychiatry, psychology, counseling, social work, corrections, education, nursing, and other related fields who work with adolescents and adults in a therapeutic capacity.

While the workshop is developed to present the continually developing body of knowledge and philosophy of Gestalt therapy, the primary focus will be on developing the practical clinical skills of the participants who work with various clients. Since the focus of Gestalt therapy is primarily experiential in nature, didactic material will be emphasized and supplemented by demonstrations and discussion.

Another aim of the workshop will be to provide each participant with a group experience in Gestalt therapy coupled with an explanation of how such experiences are generated and can be used for personal growth. Particular emphasis will be on awareness exercises and dreamwork.

This workshop will present methods and up-to-date materials for effectively teaching/communicating culture. It is designed principally for practicing and prospective teachers of Spanish but other interested parties would benefit and are welcome.

Participants will:

—increase knowledge about the Hispanic World

—increase Spanish language skills

—increase willingness and ability to deal with cultural issues in the classroom

—increase contact with other teachers and sharing of materials and ideas (opportunity for newsletter and meeting after the workshop is over).

Emphasis will be on the influence of historical and sociopolitical factors in the art, music and film of Spain and Latin America. Contact Dr. Irene Hodgson for specific information on topics to be covered. Call 745-3541.

Assignments and class activities will include: lecture, reading, discussion, informal conversation, audio visual materials and preparation of lesson plans.

Most activities will be conducted in Spanish, in a relaxed, non-threatening atmosphere. Some speakers and discussions of classroom implementation will be in English.

Participants should have at least 3 years of college level Spanish or equivalent to and be able to grasp the main ideas of extended discourse in Spanish.
